The man, we assume, is being treated. I bet if I could have noted his license plate, there is probably little the authorities could do. Read that last part again: I say the words ‘little’ and ‘the authorities’. I know what you are saying. ‘Great, Eric, yet another story about how nice our streets are. I wish I had a nicicer story to tell you.’

Op-Ed: This is No Way To Treat Our City Workers

By Frank Spriano

I have been watching the so-called “negotitions” between city unions and the mayor over a new contract. I also have been the last few weeks in Yonkers Rising about the mayor’s comments on contract negotiations between the city fire-tighten unions Local 628.

The people of Yonkers elected Mayor Spano to lead, and leadership requires you to reach across the table and come to a deal. If you can’t come to a deal, then agree to arbitration if mediation doesn’t work.

There are too many facts out there for the people of Yonkers to make up their minds as to who is doing what. Who does Mayor Spano work for? Who is Mayor Spano working for? Mayor Spano declared the 2011 mayoral election unfair, but didn’t even campaign for re-election next year. Yonkers Fire Department: 'Smoke Alarms Save Lives'

Working smoke alarms can make a life-saving difference and help to prevent home fires. That's why the Yonkers Fire Department is promoting Fire Prevention Week this year.

According to the NFPA research, a working smoke alarm saves an average of seven lives per year. Smoke alarm ignites a fire five times less likely than a home with no smoke alarm.

Social Security Q&A

How can I protect myself against identity theft?

A: First, don’t carry your Social Security card with you. Keep it secure at home with your other important papers. Second, don’t reveal your Social Security number except when you need it to receive critical services, such as applying for Social Security benefits with Social Security online at www.socialsecurity.gov or by phone at 1-800-772-1213. Don’t give your Social Security number on any website, phone call, or by text from someone you don’t know. If you think you are a victim of identity theft, file a report with your local police or the Federal Trade Commission at 1-877-438-4338.

Q: Can I limit my Social Security business online in the event of a hurricane or other disaster that keeps me from visiting an office? A: Yes, you can conduct most of your business with Social Security online at www.socialsecurity.gov, where you’ll find a wealth of information and services. For example, you can receive your earnings record, verify your earnings record and see estimates of future benefits, apply for Social Security benefits online in the event of a hurricane or other disaster that keeps you from visiting an office, and print an instant proof of income letter. Also, make sure you receive your benefits electronically. While the mail can be disrupted during severe weather or other emergencies, Social Security benefits are still paid electronically. If you need to make any changes to your direct deposit information, you can call our automated telephone call system at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778).

Thanks to foundation President Jose Roque and the City of Yonkers for giving the people another wonderful parade!

Rosh HaShanah, the Jewish New Year, inaugurates the cycle of the High Holidays, culminating with the final shofar blast heard 10 days later on Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, on which observant Jews fast, refraining from all food and drink for a 25-hour period, which ended at sunset Oct. 3.

Having survived being judged and for - given by God, and hopefully having truly confessed and atoned for one’s sins, immediately after partaking of food and drink – and thanking God for sustaining us – the members of the Lincoln Park Jewish Center started building its sukkah, a temporary structure meant to recall the Hebrew nations’ 40 years of wantering after being freed from the slavery of Egypt.

The sukkah also recalls the “clouds of glory,” which sheltered and protected the Jews as they wandered in the scorching desert sun, and are also similar to the temporary huts erected in farmers’ fields, giving the workers shade as the autumn crops are gathered – a time to thank the Lord for a bountiful harvest.

People all too easily become smug, even arrogant, and one of the messages of the Sukkot holiday is to yet again remind us that all we have – all that we think we acquired through our own efforts, skills, creativity and cunning, or by having married well, or by having rich parents – all these things are in our possession only temporarily. We are reminded that we have fared well only due to the benevolence of our Creator. Our things, even our very health, can all too easily disappear in an instant.

So while alive, we eat, drink, celebrate and enjoy life – but the Jewish tradition is to do so sitting outside, not in the seeming safety and security of our homes, but sitting in a shack; one with temporary, easily breached “walls,” and a “roof” usually made of bamboo rods, fulfilling the requirement that the stars must be visible through the “roof.”

Such a roof is one through which rain easily falls, and yellow jackets and bees arrive at the festive luncheons, intoxicated by the aromas of food and honey with which the holiday challah loaves are enjoyed.

Rabbi Rigoberto Emmanuel Viñas of the Lincoln Park Jewish Center organized the members who assisted him in erecting the sukkah, which then was decorated with flowers, fruit and pictures and words of Biblical figures special to the holiday. Sukkot started at sundown on Wednesday evening, Oct. 8; and on Sunday, Oct. 12, the Lincoln Park Jewish Center sukkah will be open for a marvelous party starting at 5 p.m., at which delicious dairy food, wine and beer will be available for purchase, as musical entertainment will be heard.
