In celebration of Earth Day, Westchester County Executive Robert Astorino unveiled a new recycled materials art gallery last week, which features artwork that is made entirely of salvaged, reused and recycled materials. The “Trash to Treasure”-themed exhibit is located within the Mineral Recovery Facility (the county’s primary recycling center) in Yonkers, where thousands of Westchester youth visit each year. "Educating our young people about the importance of recycling is crucial, and that is what this artwork helps us do," said Astorino. "This exhibit helps them understand why recycling is essential – to make the most of our resources for future generations.

This year’s fifth annual Great Saw Mill River Clean-Up Returns will be held on Saturday, April 26 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and will focus on several Yonkers locations and parks areas located in the South County Trailway, in partnership with Westchester County Parks’ “Pitch in for Parks” event.

“Now in its fifth year, we’re focusing more of our energy to support stewardship efforts in Yonkers – partnering with Yonkers-based non-profits, clubs, students and employee groups,” said Ann-Marie Mitroff, river program director for the Saw Mill River Coalition, a program of Groundwork Hudson Valley. “We’re excited to launch a Saw Mill River Coalition, a program of Groundwork Hudson Valley, to help keep the Saw Mill sparkling along the river banks in our new ‘Friends of Van der Donck Park’ to help keep the work going.

Groundwork will provide tools, gloves and supplies, and participants should bring water and shoes for outdoor work – long pants recommended and close-toed, sturdy shoes are important. To find a clean-up site and to register, go to www.sawmillcoalition.org.

For more information, call or email Mitroff at 914-375-2151 or annmarie@groundworkhv.org.

In our last article about the Exchange Club, we were reminded that April is National Child Abuse Prevention Month. It is that time of the year when the Exchange Club of Yonkers joins with all the other clubs in our district throughout our country to focus our communities’ attention on the serious issue of child abuse. According to the organization, the main issues to prevent it are:

- Abuse
- Neglect
- Physical and sexual abuse
- There is yet another challenge that many consider to be abuse, or child abuse of the worst kind, that is Fetal Alcohol Syndrome.

What is FAS?

Fetal Alcohol Syndrome is a leading cause of mental retardation. It is a cluster of birth defects that can affect all of the organs of the body. When a mother drinks alcohol while pregnant, she risks having a baby with defects that have no cure.

Fetal Alcohol Syndrome is 100 percent preventable. Women who drink alcohol while pregnant, their babies can have either Fetal Alcohol Syndrome – or Fetal Alcohol Effects, which they have the same symptoms as FAS, but are less severe.

Occurrence of FAS are estimated to one in every 2,700 babies born, and weigh more than 40,000 American children each year. Yet, Fetal Alcohol Syndrome is 100 percent preventable.

Characteristics commonly found in children with FAS include growth deficiencies, vision problems, dental abnormalities, hearing problems, epilepsy, learning disabilities, hyperactivity and more.

Remember, there is no known safe amount of alcohol for a pregnant woman to drink. When a mother drinks, her baby drinks, because the alcohol is passed directly through the placenta to the baby. Any quantity of alcohol can cause FAS.

The first World Trade Center attack occurred in the 1990s, the fuel that was used for that attack was procured by a person who worked at a gas station on the Bowery in Brooklyn. That person is now serving a life sentence in a federal prison.

President Bill Clinton, in his 1998 Health Care Bill, included a provision that called for the establishment of a national Fetal Alcohol Syndrome – or Fetal Alcohol Effects, which has the same symptoms as FAS, but are less severe.

Families Enjoy

Yvette Hartsfield and Deputy Commisioner Steve Sansone joined almost 1,000 parents, children and families who enjoyed a great day of fun, topped off by face painting by Sha-Sha the Clown.

Special thanks was extended to Chris Palandra, a retired Yonkers police officer who for the past 37 years has been running the egg hunt for PAL--to perfection. He has purchased more than 40,000 eggs over the decades, and parents who, as kids, ran across Redmond Field to find an egg, are now bringing their children to the event.

Thanks was also extended to Lisa McKay from the Yonkers Parks and Recreation Department, who assisted PAL in the egg hunt.

launched the “Leave no Trace” initiative at Kardashian Park on Earth Day. Launched in the 76 city parks and playgrounds, Leave no Trace advises visitors to leave the park with any and all items with which they entered, including trash and recyclables.

Starting last week, “Leave No Trace” signs were posted throughout the city, urging residents to lend a hand in keeping their parks clean and safe.

On Friday, April 25, the city celebrates Arbor Day with tree plantings in neighborhoods across the city at Fay Park on Abell Street at 9:30 a.m.; at Balder Park on Nepperhan Avenue at 11 a.m.; and at Center Park on McLean Avenue at 12:30 p.m.

There are more than 80,000 trees living in the City of Yonkers, and by demonstrating a commitment to caring for and managing public trees, Yonkers has been designated a “Tree City USA” for 27 years.

Earth Day celebrations in Yonkers continued on the banks of the Hudson River, with residents coming together for the annual Blessing of the Hudson at the Beczak Environmental Education Center. Father John Hamilton of St. Johns Church, Shimmer Tikvah Cantor Gerald Cohen, and the Annunciation School Choir under the direction of Taffy Williams joined others in prayers and hopes for the planet.
