Yonkers’ Best & Brightest: Gorton High School

By Dan Murphy

Mike Spano has been the first mayor in more than 20 years that has seriously attempted to address the city’s budget problem and define that occur on a yearly basis.
He has convened a commission of financial experts to audit the city’s budget and has proposed a budget that comply with the property tax cap.
The mayor’s efforts have resulted in bond rating upgrades for Yonkers.

In the not-so-distant future.

The glow of flames and sparks rising into the night sky this Saturday night will mean that the members and friends of Lincoln Park Jewish Center are celebrating Lag B’Omer. Observant Jews count each day, starting from the second night of Passover, marking and recalling their departure from slavery in Egypt, noting the personal and communal struggles to free ourselves from sins which have occurred during the preceding weeks, culminating with the holiday of Shavuot on the 50th day since Passover, observed this year on June 4. Throughout Israel on this holiday, bonfires are lit and songs and celebrating are the custom, and LPJC will celebrate with a bonfire on Central Park Avenue in back of the Jewish Center at 8:45 p.m., immediately after the conclusion of evening services. Food and refreshments will be enjoyed.

The Lag B’Omer holiday marks a respite from the traditional period of semi-mourning from the second day of Passover until Shavuot, the celebration of the Jews receiving the Torah at Mount Sinai. During this seven-week period, some of the customs of mourning are observed, including that men do not shave, no marriages are performed, and men and women do not live to listen to live musical performances, recalling the plague which afflicted the Jewish students in Israel thousands of years ago due to baseless hatred between the two differing schools of religious thought of Rabbi Hillel and Rabbi Shammai.

The Lag B’Omer holiday celebration at LPJC is in honor of the Hilula of the great Rabbi Shimon Bar Yohai, master teacher of the Kabbalah and giver of the light of the Holy Zohar, and to honor the memory of Margarita Vinas, the mother of LPJC’s Rabbi Rigoberto Emmanuel Vinas.

Hire-a-Yonkers-Youth

Launched by City & YWIB

The Yonkers Workforce Investment Board is launching a new “Hire-a-Yonkers-Youth” program to help local businesses to provide employment opportunities for ready-work youth, ages 14 to 21, with paid summer jobs, announced Mayor Mike Spano last week.

"Our Yonkers youth are enthusiastic, dedicated and ready to work," said Mayor Spano. "Connecting our youth with our local businesses is something that can serve as the mentorship we can learn from our mentors in the community for many years to come. We will remember our first summer job. We want them to have the same experience. I urge our Yonkers community to assist our youth in realizing this dream and building their future.

The New York State Conference of Mayors Workforce Investment Board is seeking to match over 500 summer job opportunities with temporary, entry-level jobs at local businesses. The City already has secured 175 youth, with 200 more pending approval from the New York State Workforce Development Board to provide an additional two dozen jobs as part of the “Hire-a-Yonkers-Youth” program.

"Hire-a-Yonkers” is happy to provide great opportunities for our Yonkers Youth,” said Jerry Galikala, GoLEAP/GoLEAP Youth Worker.

"We are eager to be mentors to our youth, not only during the summer months, but all year long. Hire-a-Yonkers is kind to the City of Yonkers for encouraging our other businesses to do their part in hiring a Yonkers youth and giving back to our community.”

The Yonkers-Youth-Program will provide youth with paid summer jobs, creating a system to help young people gain work experience, build communication skills and develop a better understanding of what a career in the workforce for Yonkers workers, said Spano. "The City of Yonkers is a great place to live and work, and when local businesses fill summer vacancies with Yonkers youth, it keeps the youth positive and productive, so that they will be the future leaders and at the same time, helps the next generation, the help to create that future for success.

"This program is part of our ongoing effort to educate the public on the dangers associated with distracted driving, particularly younger drivers operating vehicles in our city,” said Police Commissioner Charles Gardner. "We would like to thank Mayor Spano and State Farm Insurance for partnering with us on this program, and we look forward to the Yonkers Police Department working with us to bring the person(s) responsible for this heinous act.

"This program is part of our ongoing effort to educate the public on the dangers associated with distracted driving in general. As part of the campaign, VPD has dispatched traffic patrols and has increased enforcement to combat the growing problem. We have also encouraged parents and young people to visit YPD’s “Eyes on the Road” page on the city’s website, at www.yonkersny.gov, get the latest updates, report texting, and get a text message in return that the officer will respond to it.

"We are very fortunate to announce that Black Sabbath, has offered to contribute $25,000,” announced SPCA Executive Director Joanne Gordon, to this cause, visit WWW.SPCA914.ORG.

Police Dept. Awarded Grant For Distracted Driving Class

The Yonkers Police Department has been awarded a $15,000 grant by State Farm Insurance to conduct a distracted driving education class for drivers ages 16 to 20. The grant comes as Mayor Mike Spano announced last week the city’s “Eyes on the Road” program will start an effort to raise awareness of the dangers of distracted driving.

As part of the campaign, VPD has dispatched traffic patrols and has increased enforcement to combat the growing problem. We have also encouraged parents and young people to visit VPD’s “Eyes on the Road” page on the city’s website, at www.yonkersny.gov, get the latest updates, report texting, and get a text message in return that the officer will respond to it.

According to the U.S. Department of Transportation, driver distraction contributed to 18 percent of motor vehicle crashes in the United States in 2010, and in 2011, 3,311 people were killed in crashes that involved a distracted driver. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration states that 21 percent of all fatal crashes involve the use of a cell phone, 9 percent of all injured adults and 15 percent in involved final crashes were distracted by the use of cell phones.

According to a May 2013 study from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, 45 percent of all students 16 and older said they had driven while distracted by the use of cell phones.

Can You Give Paris A Permanent Home?

Paris is a 7-year-old Boxer/amstaff mix, who weighs about 55 pounds and traveled all the way from Poland with her family, only to find that they couldn’t have pets where they were going to live. Paris was adopted not too long after arriving in Yonkers, but she didn’t do well with the family’s other animals.

Paris is amazing with people, including children, but is best as the only pet. She has nice leash manners, is house trained, doesn’t bark much and would love to have a home again.

Visit Paris at the Yonkers Animal Shelter, 1000 Ridge Hill Blvd, between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays, and noon and 4 p.m. weekends. For more information, call 914-377-6730 during business hours or 201-981-3215 at any time.

When a baby is vigorously shaken, the baby’s head and neck are susceptible to injury. These injuries can include brain swelling and bleeding, most commonly in the brain stem area, and to a lesser degree in the cerebellum. If these injuries occur, the baby may develop permanent brain damage, including mental retardation and damage to motor and sensory functions. Some babies die within hours or days of the injury; others may survive, but with permanent disabilities. Injuries that can occur to the brain include:
- Brain stem injury: This can cause cessation of breathing and cardiac function, leading to death. Brain stem injury can also cause a child to be in a persistent vegetative state, which means the child is alive but not aware of their surroundings.
- Cerebellum injury: This can cause difficulties with balance and coordination. If the injury is severe, cerebellum damage can lead to permanent disabilities.
- Bleeding in the brain: This can put pressure on the brain and can lead to swelling. Severe bleeding can be life-threatening.
- Swelling of the brain: This can put pressure on the brain and can lead to symptoms such as seizures and reduced consciousness.

Head injuries
- Brain震荡：This can cause a temporary loss of consciousness, confusion, or dizziness.
- Cerebral edema：This can cause swelling in the brain, which can put pressure on the brain and can lead to symptoms such as seizures and reduced consciousness.
- Hematoma：This is a collection of blood under the skull, which can put pressure on the brain and can lead to symptoms such as seizures and reduced consciousness.

Some signs that a baby may have shaken baby syndrome include:
- Changes in normal behavior：The baby may be unusually irritable, unresponsive, or uninterested in their surroundings.
- Changes in normal feeding：The baby may not want to eat or have trouble breathing.
- Symptoms of brain injury：The baby may have a fever, seizures, or problems with breathing.
- Symptoms of hemorrhage：The baby may have bruising, blood in the urine or stool, or a decrease in urine output.

If you suspect that a baby may have shaken baby syndrome, it is important to seek medical attention immediately.

Treatment
- Immediate medical attention：This is crucial to prevent further damage to the brain.
- Hospitalization：The baby may need to stay in the hospital for observation and monitoring.
- Tests：These may include CT scans, MRIs, and other tests to assess the extent of the brain injury.
- Medication：This may be used to manage symptoms such as seizures, pain, and fever.
- Physical therapy：This may be used to help the baby recover from the injury.

Shaken Baby Syndrome is a serious and preventable condition. If you have any concerns about a baby’s health, it is important to seek medical attention immediately.

The Insanity of Challenging Astorino’s Right to Run for Gov.

By Dan Murphy

Eight Democrats on the Westchester County Board of Legislators have been engaged in a "salacious" resolution calling for the removal of Rob Astorino from the Office of County Executive, accusing him of mismanaging government and acting as "derelict in duty.

The resolution, introduced by County Board Chairman Michael Kaplowitz, the Republican from Cortlandt, and County Board Vice-Chairman John Larkin, the Democrat from Yonkers, has caused a stir among political observers.

John Larkin, the Democrat from Yonkers, has been a district leader for the Republican Party since elementary school, volunteering with his father. David has been active in the Republican Party since elementary school, volunteering with his father. a proclamation presented to Police Commissioner Charles Gardner from Deputy Mayor Sue Gerry at City Hall. The YPD Honor Guard was on hand and Gardner invited the public to participate in the week-long program of activities.

On Tuesday, an awards program and a candlelight memorial service were held at the police and fire memorial located in Untermyer Park on North Broadway.

“I congratulate all the men and women of our Yonkers police for their continued service to our city,” said Mayor Mike Spano. “Yonkers is one of the safest cities of its size in the country and that is the direct result of the valor and commitment demonstrated by the department each and every day. Police Week is a chance for us to pay tribute to those honorable officers who have laid the foundation to the safe quality of life of our Yonkers residents.”

Fifteen police officers have lost their lives while serving with YPD, dating back to 1904, and their names are inscribed on the memorial in Untermyer Park.

“As National Police Week events unfold around the country this week, I would like to thank all the members of the Yonkers Police Department for the work they do every day in helping to keep our community safe,” said Commissioner Gardner. “The decrease in crime here in Yonkers over the last few years is a result of their hard work and determination. Police Week gives us an opportunity to reflect on those who serve and those who have made the ultimate sacrifice while serving in the Yonkers Police Department.”

Promotions were given and celebrated by Spano, Gardner, family and friends for Lt. Mark Baiocco, Sgt. Dean Politopoulos, Sgt. Jared Singer and Det. Michael Manousos.

The close of Police Week will be celebrated Sunday, May 18 with a 9:30 a.m. police memorial Mass at St. Eugene’s Church, 22 Massetoa Road.
