This individual’s quick response and acceptance to an 8 percent property tax increase caught me by surprise, even though I knew he was a supporter of labor. Still not enough to avoid layoffs

By Dan Murphy

Along my travels throughout Yonkers, I spoke to a small business owner on Central Avenue and longtime homeowner in East Yonkers. I asked him if he would be willing to accept an 8 percent property tax increase to help balance the city’s budget and avoid up to 400 job eliminations proposed by Mayor Mike Spano. Without hesitation, the gentleman said: “Yes, I would.

Everyone’s Taking a LimeBike

Ride Around Yonkers New Rideshare a Big Success

By Dan Murphy

As I traveled around Yonkers recently, I noticed dozens of kids and adults enjoying the unmistakable green bikes that landed in the city last month as part of LimeBike’s decision to choose Yonkers as its first location in the metropolitan area to open its bikeshare business company. I saw kids and adults riding them, and I saw the smiles. I thought about the impact LimeBike could have on someone who either can’t afford to buy a bike or lives in an apartment too small to keep a bike.

When I got home that evening and over the weekend, I read social media regardingWestchester and noticed that LimeBike had gotten caught in the middle of a budget battle in Yonkers, and that a misleading story about a wonderful and successful spraying every issue about a wonderful and successful Newsletters.

According to the National Math and Science Initiative, science, technology, engineering, and art (STEAM) jobs will grow almost twice as fast as non-STEAM jobs over the next decade. Yet, both men and women of culture significantly under-represented in this workforce. “If businesses in the lower Hudson Valley want to remain profitable and competitive, especially as a junior preparing for college and future internships,” said Nalo Russell, rising senior at the Chapin School and STEAM Camp co-president, “it takes a village, and the public and private sector must work in partnership to create a win-win situation for all.”

Sister to Sister International, Inc., a local nonprofit based in Yonkers for more than 20 years, was one of the first in the region to create a cut-and-keep STEAM summer camp for girls and boys of color, more than nine years ago. The summer camp and now youth-year-round STEAM Academy have nurtured more than 11,000 girls in the lower Hudson Valley through various exposure activities and events.

One such event was a student tour at the Yonkers City Pier under X-20 Restaurant, which shares the same address. “We are thrilled to bring this caliber of music to the downtown,” added Yonkers Mayor Mike Spano. “From jazz to reggae, Latin to oldies – there is a concert for everyone to enjoy this summer in downtown Yonkers.”

Yonkers Waterfront Live is made possible by United Healthcare, Dolphin, Westchester Center for Jazz & Contemporary Music, the City of Yonkers, Domino Sugar and the Yonkers Downtown Business Improvement District. June concerts include:

* June 8: The Mary J. Blige tribute band “Sweetwine,” with a salute to the homegrown sensation who is winner of nine Grammy Awards and three Golden Globe nominations, and an Oscar nominee.
* June 15: Anahim Band is the regional reggae sensation band featuring harmonious sounds of roots to dancehall.
* June 22: Westchester Center for Jazz & Contemporary is an organization in Yonkers that gives kids the opportunity to perform and work with worldclass musicians – giving the kids the benefit of real-life advice and instruction that is unique to a working professional musician, promoting the arts and giving back to the community.
* June 29: Elise Alvarez is a jazz ensemble and party ensemble performing Latin, salsa and merengue hits. For more information on happenings this summer, visit www.YonkersDowntown.com.

Yonkers Kiwanis Honor Teachers of the Year

For the past 61 years, the Kiwanis Club of Yonkers, in coop- eration with the Yonkers Board of Education, has given recognition to pub- lic school teachers who have demonstrated excellence in teaching, made significant contributions to the school community, and engaged in activities that have led to student growth and development.

Afsaneh and Kamran Parandian are the couple who meets those criteria is selected each year from a slate of nomi- nees to be inducted into the Yonkers Teacher Hall of Fame. In 2015, the mayor of the City of Yonkers joined the tribute, awarding annual recognitions to outstanding el- ementary and secondary “Yonkers Teachers.”

Nominations are submitted online by stu- dents, parents-guardians and colleagues. The Teacher of the Year recognition program was originated by Abraham Elkind, chairman of the Teacher of the Year Hall of Fame. In 2015, there are Teacher of the Year in elementary, middle and high school cate- gories.

The elementary teacher of the year is Ab- soum Parandian, from School 30.

Abdou Parandian was born in the Yonkers Public Schools in 1998 at School 30 as a pre- kindergarten teacher, the multicultural magnet that is currently located in a kindergarten teacher for the past 16 years. She was nomi- nated by 16 current and former parents of her students and endorsed by Principal Dr. Marjorie Secretary Thomas Murty, the first teacher was inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Parandian was raised in the City of Yon- kers after her family came to the United States in 1983. “My amazing parents live in Yonkers,” she said. Educated in the Yonkers Public Schools, she graduated from Gordon High School in 1994, and she earned her Bachelor’s degree in at the Late Magnet program and attended elementary Schools 32 and 28 (currently School 32) and Ridgewood High School, and Emerson Middle School (currently School 31). She began her career in the Yonkers Public Schools.

Parandian received a bachelor’s degree in education from Marymount College, graduating with a 3.7 GPA. She completed a master’s degree in special education and awarded a scholar placement into the first cohort of the Eraste Williams County Graduate Certificate Program, a partnership with Ford- ham University’s Graduate School of Education funded at $80,000 by six grants from the National Science Foundation. The City of Yonkers has the Science Barge, which docks on the Yonkers downtown water- front and recently celebrated its 10th anniver- sary.

This weekend, the GlassBarge will visit Yonkers as it travels across the state, courtesy of Corning Museum of Glass, which is celebrating its 150th Anniversary.

The GlassBarge offers glassblowing dem- onstrations every 45 minutes, and up to 150 guests are welcome onboard for each 30-minute free performance.

This 30-foot-by-80-foot canal barge is speci- fically equipped with the museum’s patented all- electric glassmaking equipment. In addition to sharing the story of glassmaking in Corning, the recreation of the 1868 barge voyage emphasizes the continued role of New York’s waterways in shaping the state’s industry, culture and commu- nity.

A flotilla of historic ships will accompany the GlassBarge throughout the weekend, includ- ing the Loew McClure, a replica of an 1862 canal barge, part of the permanent collection of the Lake Champlain Maritime Museum. Everyone is invited aboard the Loew McClure at each port to learn about what is on board on a canal barge in the 19th century. Tours are free, first-come, first-served and does not require registration.

In total, the GlassBarge will travel to 30 cit- ies and towns, offering glassblowing demon- strations at each port.

The GlassBarge is the 2018 signature event for the statewide celebration of the Erie Canal Bicentennial (2017-25). A full schedule of stops is available at www.cmog.org/GlassBarge.

The GlassBarge will visit Yonkers starting Friday, June 1 from 10 a.m. at the Pier, and will stay for the weekend, through June 3.

A $50,000 grant from Westchester Committee on the Arts Foundation will help Family Services of Westchester create a new “partial hospital” to provide behavioral health services to children who are experiencing a crisis without resorting to a costly hospital stay. “We are so grateful to Westchester Community Foundation for its generosity,” said Margaret M. Kerrigan, executive director of Family Services of Westchester. “This new partial hospital will provide a vital and needed service to our community.”

The innovative collaboration will supplant existing services at SIMC to create a new partial hospital that will allow children to receive primary health services in the community, thereby avoiding in-patient hospitalization. The new facility, which is expected to be operational by September 2018, is designed to help in the delivery of health care services by creating a single setting for both behavioral and primary health care.

In addition to providing behavioral health care to the children, the program will also increase access to primary health care for those families as well. The new facility will offer developmentally appropriate educational programs, individual and group therapy, recreational therapy, and family counseling to help keep young children safe and healthy. Located at 54 South Broadway, the new facility will allow SIMC to expand its service to young children and families, as well as offer therapeutic playroom and specialty services in Yonkers, as well as multiple locations, as well as special education programs it operates in White Plains.

By combining their strengths, FSW and SIMC are expected reduce health care costs for families and children.

The new facility will open out of a single setting for both behavioral and primary health care. The new facility will be up and running by September, when the school year starts, so we can intervene when children experience behavioral health issues. A mental health clinic that receives more than 5,000 annual visits, providing patients with a broad spectrum of services to address the social, emotional, and environmental factors that have a negative impact on family life, FSW has decades of experience working with young children through the Robards Center, the Westchester, New York and specialty services in Yonkers, including Pediatric, Pre-K, and school-operated health centers.

In addition to its hospital, emergency room and specialty services in Yonkers, SIMC operates primary care offices in multiple locations, including a health center in Yonkers, New York City. It also provides community-based residential care and urgent mental health services, support to families affected by mental illness, and mental health care services to its patients at Saint Joseph’s Hospital, the Westchester Medical Center and the NewYork-Presbyterian Hospital.

SIMC’s Outpatient Mental Health Clinic is a new addition to the partial hospital program, which provides children and families with a variety of services to support their mental health and wellbeing. The new facility will allow SIMC to expand its service to young children and families, as well as offer therapeutic playroom and specialty services in Yonkers, as well as multiple locations, as well as special education programs it operates in White Plains.

This Memorial Day as we honored those who have fallen in battle and those still serving, one of Yonkers’s longtime residents, who served his country proudly in the Pacific, died. Ninety-two-year-old Marine Cpl. Solomon Brizer, a WWII veteran, lost his battle with a brief illness May 24. He died at home surrounded by his devoted daughters, Wendy Brizer Maciol and Diane Brizer.

For many years, Sol was a practicing chiropractor who, by family accounts, lived a holistic lifestyle, rarely if ever ill until a year ago. A mild-mannered man by nature, he lectured on nutrition and the benefits of keeping active. Up until his 80s, Dr. Brizer was weight lifting at the gym. He kept physically active up until his illness, exercising several times a week, doing Tai Chi at the Yonkers veterans’ and senior centers. He enjoyed old Western movies, was an avid reader, loved “MASH” marathons and an occasional visit to a casino. Dr. Brizer remained active in local events supporting veterans and the troops throughout his life, receiving honors along the way. Not in it for the “honors,” according to his daughters, one of Dr. Brizer’s most memorable moments was his participation in Hudson Valley Honor Flight Mission 12 back in 2016. Pictures of Sol at this event filled his apartment, as well as others recognizing him for his service. They truly are wonderful reminders for his daughters, family and his many friends, of his love for protecting our freedoms.

The Memorial Day parade in Crestwood and ceremonies at the VFW and American Legion Posts in Yonkers made sure that those who were lost in WWII, WWII, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, and the recent Gulf Wars will forever be thanked and remembered on this day every year.

The City of Yonkers celebrated the service and sacrifice of members of the armed services with a parade and commemorative events all across the city. A ceremony at the City War Memorial on South Broadway included essays read by young students about the importance of the day, and of the gratitude we need to show to our veterans for protecting our freedoms.

On June 9, Ray Tabano, one of the founders of the rock band Aerosmith, will be rocking at Barney McNabb’s for disabled veterans. The event will benefit the Disabled American Veterans, Chapter 23, in the Bronx. “Currently, there are approximately 4 million veterans with disabilities, so the need is great and growing,” he said. “I’ve been an adamant supporter of DAV for 25 years and this is an opportunity to express my gratitude to those who were hurt defending our freedoms. All profits will go directly to DAV. This will be an awesome show and we’ll have some surprise guests showing up.” Members of the DAV will be manning the door and on hand to accept donations. Admission to the event is $20, which includes the show and a buffet. There will also be a 50/50 raffle for DAV’s benefit. The show kicks off at 8:30 p.m. with an opening act, followed by Tabano and his band The 3rd Step. The capacity of the venue is limited, so attendees are encouraged to arrive early. admissions are encouraged to arrive early. Barney McNabb’s is located at 660 Tuckahoe Road, Yonkers.
