Perfect Attendance Celebrated

Congratulations to the 20 exceptional students at School 23 for not missing a day of school this year and attending school 182 days! School 23 students accepted the challenge to "Bridge 182" in September, and Mayor Mike Spano remained true to his word to award those students a pizza party and recognize them for their commitment to education.

IG Untangles Web of Deceit With YPS Transit Services

The Fix was in for Union School Services

Editor's note: The transportation budget for the Yonkers Public Schools is $35 million per year. This large expenditure is crucial for ensuring that students have timely and reliable transportation to school.

At last week's community meeting, members of the Yonkers community came together to discuss the transportation budget and the recent allegations of fraud and abuse.

The report, which can be read in its entirety at www.cityofyonkers.com/transportation, includes:

- Executive Summary
- The Fix was in for Union School Services
- Permit #7164

This report is the result of a coordinated effort initiated by the Yonkers City School District in response to concerns over the transportation budget and the recent allegations of fraud and abuse.

Based on the perceived criminality involved, the Yonkers City School District is believed to have submitted fraudulent billing statements that cost taxpayers more than $100,000. The investigation resulted in three arrests and, to date, one conviction.

The report, which can be read in its entirety online at www.cityofyonkers.com/transportation, will authorize financing up to $523 million for school building facilities. The legislation creates the Yonkers Joint School Construction Board, which can bond for the cost of construction.

Just five months after Mayor Mike Spano launched the Rebuild Yonkers Schools campaign, the New York State Legislature last week passed enabling legislation that will allow the City of Yonkers to repair and rebuild the district’s 39 schools. Yonkers now will be able to start the process of planning this work as part of a 13-year, four-phase project.

The “Yonkers City School District Joint School Construction and Modernization Act” will authorize financing up to $523 million for school building facilities. The legislation creates the Yonkers Joint School Construction Board, which can bond for the cost of construction.

“We are very thankful this bill has made it through both the Assembly and Senate to begin the process of repairing our 39 schools,” said Spano. “While it wasn’t everything we hoped for in terms of state reimbursements, it builds a foundation for the future.”
Close to 120 people crossed a gang plank from the Science Barge on Yonkers’ waterfront to board the Majestic Princess yacht for a unique, round-trip dinner cruise on a perfect late spring evening June 15. Sipping cocktails on decks fore and aft, the guests sailed the Hudson—bound for the Tappan Zee Bridge.

Along the way, Science Barge Captain Bob Walters pointed out attractions as they sailed north, past Yonkers, Hastings-on-Hudson, Dobbs Ferry and Irvington. Once they reached Tarrytown, Craig Teepell, deputy construction engineer for the New NY Bridge Project, offered details about the ongoing construction of the new Tappan Zee Bridge, as the yacht’s decks offered a bird’s eye view of dwarfing, iconic towers (they’ll ultimately be 419 feet high); massive cranes, including the I Lift NY super crane; sweeping approach spans; and more than a mile of girders, glistening in the late afternoon sun.

Vista Yacht Cruises, owner of the Majestic Princess, offered the three-hour cruise to Groundwork Hudson Valley as a fundraising event to benefit the Science Barge, and a way to showcase its cruise package for private charters. Guests were treated to hors d’oeuvres, wine and beer, and a buffet dinner aboard the 110-foot yacht. Those who stole the show and got the front page for this story: Stephanie was recognized for an unbelievable amount of hard work and dedication for her spotless attendance record— not missing one day of school from sixth through 12th grade.

BOL Dissagrees Over Special Election

"This is a perfect opportunity for the County Board to make a good governance decision to save taxpayers perhaps upwards of $100,000 and to prevent divided elections which would be a waste of time and money," said Testa.

"We spent a lot of time listening to Legislator Mike Spano; and Christine Peters, also a former Democratic candidate for County Board. We also heard from and got a great sense from County Clerk Timothy Idoni of his concern to save taxpayers upwards of $100,000 and to make a good governance decision that can bring us out of a divided government," said Testa.

"Setting the date in August is just a waste of time and money and sup- press voter turnout to the polls."

Africans-American Heritage

The public is invited to experience the richness of African-American culture through free fire in all nations. It is a fundamental human right. It is an economic development strategy for providing empirical opportunities for success. The Yonkers School District has found that chronic absenteeism is predictable to experience underscored educational outcomes.

In the case of the Yonkers School District, the best practice for tracking students’ attendance. According to the U.S. Department of Education, students who are chronically absent are defined as students who are chronically absent when they live in impoverished circumstances lead to the “root cause” of chronic absenteeism. The Yonkers School District has found that chronic absenteeism results in academic failure, loss of self-esteem, and a feeling of hopelessness that could lead to foreseeable negative outcomes.

So, what are the stakes for who are chronically impacted?

Research shows that students of low-income and minority status are chronically absent. For these students, the penalty does not solve the problem—nor does it reduce the number of students who spend more than a full year away from school. Students Against Suspension also urges the Yonkers School District to re-evaluate its Code of Conduct and make changes in order to better support at-risk students. These circumstances lead to the “root cause” of chronic absenteeism. The Yonkers School District has found that chronic absenteeism results in academic failure, loss of self-esteem, and a feeling of hopelessness that could lead to foreseeable negative outcomes.

In 2015, leaders of the U.S. Department of Education announced their commitment to supporting state and local communities in the work of addressing and eliminating chronic absenteeism. Now, it is up to New York State, Yonkers School District, and all of Yonkers’ health, housing and justice agencies and organizations to join forces and demonstrate their commitment to support state and local communities in the work of addressing and eliminating chronic absenteeism. Neither of these circumstances lead to the “root cause” of chronic absenteeism. The Yonkers School District has found that chronic absenteeism results in academic failure, loss of self-esteem, and a feeling of hopelessness that could lead to foreseeable negative outcomes.

Celebrate Independence Day in Yonkers, NY! More than 30 players competed on nine teams in the ninth annual Lucy Eisler Memorial Basketball Tournament, a 3-on-3 basketball challenge held each year on Father’s Day, played on the courts of the Lincoln Park Jewish Center. This year’s guest speaker was Bobby Gonzalez, formerly a coach with Manhattan College and Seton Hall University.

Lucy Eisler was a true advocate of public education, as well as fair play and equal opportunity in youth sports, while raising her two sons — who both graduated from Lincoln High School in Yonkers. The tournament serves to carry on these beliefs, drawing players from private, parochial and public schools throughout Westchester, and raises funds for charities and for the Lincoln Park Jewish Center.

Sid Blauner, playing on the team “Lion Hearted” with Jimmy Bosque and Eddie Alvarez, beat the “Blazer Blasters,” on which Sid Blauner’s son Zelik and Eitan Blauner played against their father, in the championship game in overtime by a score of 36-25, giving a Father’s Day present of the older defeating the younger due to skill, perseverance, experience, tactics and strategy.

Sid Blauner was named “Most Valuable Player” of the tournament.
