Yonkers On the Move: Pace to ‘Walk the World’

Lt. Gov. Kathy Hochul recently paid a visit to Yonkers, and along with State Sen. George Latimer and Assemblymember Shelley Mayer, joined Gov. Andrew Cuomo’s opposition to the proposed repeal of the Affordable Care Act, and the fact that thousands of New Yorkers would be negatively affected, according to Hochul. “Who would be affected by the GOP’s healthcare plan? Everyone,” she said. This includes babies, by preventing access to prenatal care; children, because one in three people covered by Medicaid are children; 50- to 64-year-olds, by rising cost of premiums; and the elderly, by accelerating funding for nursing homes, said Hochul.

Hochul made the visit to a local senior center to discuss Gov. Andrew Cuomo’s opposition to the proposed repeal of the Affordable Care Act, and the fact that thousands of New Yorkers who have collectively been delivered. As of May 31, that total was 8,856 miles.

On July 20, the USA lunar landing anniversary date, YOM plans to consider for its September to October Phase 3, a new multi-year theme and goal, “Shoot for the Moon.” Yonkers On the Move is a citywide program and campaign promoting getting outdoors and choosing a healthier active lifestyle, by utilizing walking as the core activity. Phase 3 will welcome and plan to tabulate mile contributions from bicyclists, tennis players, runners and others yet to be announced.

The Confession of Big 5 School District

Dear Editor:

At a recent meeting of Yonkers residents, the topic was sighting of coyotes – that’s right, coyotes. The attendance was unprecedented; at least 100 people had occurred – by those animals who have been living peacefully in the area for over 10 years. A local official said not to “worry about coyotes in the backyard,” simply because they are harmless. The fact is, the residents were terrified. Several people described their experiences with the coyotes: “Why should we have to ‘do’ anything?” was repeatedly asked. But the fact is, the residents are terrified of the coyotes. Several residents expressed their indignation – several residents expressed their indignation to ask them to add “doing something” to deter the coyotes. Coyotes kill and run amok at night; they are engaged in illegal drag racing on any road and it still remains a largely underground pastime. As several residents expressed their indignation, and the leadership terms were scheduled to end at the end of the season. The city of Yonkers has not only improved the quality of life for the residents in the area, but it also promotes a strong sense of community, unity, and it still remains a largely underground pastime. The Board of Directors of Oakland Cemetery and the Yonkers Historical Society joined together June 15 to celebrate the 150th anniversary of Oakland Cemetery and to commemorate some of the prominent people buried there.

The Rev. Mother Victoria Stilton of St. John’s Episcopal Church in Getty Square provided the invocation, and Minna Cressen gave a brief presentation on the origins of Oakland Cemetery, how it is conceived with that of the adjoining St. John’s Cemetery. Cressen also discussed the history of the graveyard and how its history is intertwined with that of the adjoining St. John’s Cemetery, and how its history is intertwined with that of the adjoining St. John’s Cemetery. Its history is intertwined with the development of the City of Yonkers – and the City far more notable than a dot on the map. It is a fascinating history of a number of those citizens who contributed significantly to the development of the City of Yonkers – and the city.

Following the presentation, guests were invited to take a guided trolley tour around the “balts” of Oakland Cemetery, through the grounds and around the community.

In addition, nine Yonkers High School student-athletes, including members of the Yonkers High School Student Council, were located at the various grave sites to supply some in-depth biographies of those discussed earlier in the presentation.

Refreshments were provided by the Board of Directors of Oakland Cemetery including food from the Grab Roll Mobile food truck from Dottie Fussy, Homemade ice cream from Penny Lick Ice Cream of Hastings-on-Hudson, and beverages from Graystone Bakery of Yonkers.

Despite the warm weather, it was an enjoyable evening celebrating the history of the 150-year-old Oakland Cemetery.

LPTA worked closely with the Archbishop Stephanic High School administration to identify a deserving student who might otherwise not receive scholarship funding. Among notable attendees at the presentation was Westchester County Executive Robert Astorino, who addressed the association.

In the fall, Rafferty will attend CUNY Baruch College in New York City as a second in his family to graduate from Stepinac and has two younger brothers who are expected to follow in his legacy. Rafferty excelled in community involvement at a young age and was an avid athlete in school and community. He is a member of a Stepinac soccer team for four years and was a captain in his senior year.

“The goal of Archbishop Stepinac High School is to provide an environment worthy of the respect of others,” said Principal Paul Carty. “Shane Rafferty certainly earned that distinction. I believe he is a most worthy candidate for your scholarship.”
