One of that state’s best-known television shows, “Ray Donovan,” recently filmed in Yonkers. One of the stars of the show is legendary actor Jon Voight, who is a Yonkers native and proud of it. Mike Spano recently visited Voight as he was filming “Ray Donovan” at a private home in Yonkers.

“We are on the set of a show we really love,” said Mike Spano. “I’m from Yonkers. It’s a bit of a dream to film here for ‘Ray Donovan.’ I’m in the scene, and I love being from Yonkers. Hello, Yonkers. I actually have the rare opportunity here with me, and it’s great to be back,” said Voight, from outside of one of the non-descript houses in Yonkers last month.

“Ray Donovan,” which has been based in California for years, moved back east at the request of its lead actor Liv Schreiber, who plays Ray Donovan. The NY Post reported “Schr- eiber misses his kids so much he is having a Showtime move ‘Ray Donovan’ to New York. Naomi Watts — his partner of 11 years, until they announced a split in September — and their two kids, stickers, and movie that..."

Coyne Senior Center Renamed After Bernice Spreckman

Assembly candidate Nader Sayegh knocking on a door collecting signatures.

It was a historic day in the City of Yonkers this week as Mayor Mike Spano, the Yonkers City Council, and other local, state, and county leaders renamed Yonkers’ 104-year-old Bernice Spreckman Community Center, and one of the co-founders of the global phenomenon “Ray Donovan.”

Four Democrats filed petitions for Assembly in the 90th District, which encompasses Yonkers, Norwalk, Rye, and the Borough of New Rochelle. Those who collected the bulk of the signatures are Assembly members in the 44th District portion of the 13th Senate District.

The Spreckman served as a Westchester County Legislator for more than 20 years, representing the county’s 14th District, which includes parts of Yonkers and Mount Vernon, and also served on the Yonkers City Council in the Second Ward for almost 12 years.

“Bernice Spreckman Community Center” will now greet seniors as they enter the Yonkers Senior Center — a facility that is legendary actor Jon Voight as he was filming "Ray Donovan” at a private home in Yonkers. One of the stars of the show is legendary actor Jon Voight, who is a..."
Kelly Needs a Home

The Yonkers Animal Shelter has many pets available for adoption. Kelly is a medium-size mixed breed dog who has been at the shelter quite a while. She was originally found in a stray, running around for food near a large feral cat colony. Kelly is a smart dog who is always looking to please her person. She knows several commands and seems like she would love to learn more. She would prefer to be the only pet in the household, as she is very feral and would do best in a quiet household, as she is only about 38 to 40 pounds. Kelly is a bully breed who has a look that could scare people, but she is quite a bit gentler than she appears. She would make a great dog for someone who is always looking to please her pet. Pre-Apprenticeship Program for Yonkers Residents a Big Hit

“By creating this program we are providing Yonkers residents a direct pathway to life-long careers in the unionized construction industry,” said Mayor Mike Spano, chairman of the Yonkers IDA. “Not only will we be helping unemployed or underemployed residents. The measure was passed unanimously by the IDA board Dec. 10.

Playland Boardwalk Re-Opens
County Students Get Season Pass for Great Grades

Visitors to Playland in Rye will once again enjoy magnificent views of Long Island Sound from the 700-foot-long North Boardwalk, now that a capital replacement project has been completed, announced Westchester County Executive George Latimer during a recent ribbon-cutting ceremony. Latimer was joined by County Parks Commissioner Kathy O’Connor, Commissioner of the Department of Public Works Hugh Greeran, and Deputy Parks Commissioner Peter Tartaglia, to officially open the Boardwalk.

“My sister happened to be home, turned on ‘The View’ on Channel 7, and it, too, was preempted by the Trump-Press conference – or ‘press’ – as we call it in the news world. There were too many “preemptions” for breaking news bulletins on television nowadays. The television manufacturer or cable company that comes up with a way for us to turn off the breaking news alerts, I will give you credit. But spectrum people must be aware of it even if it’s too late. In the past, we had a “wouldn’t.”

It’s been a long time coming, but the way this new boardwalk is built, it will be here for a very, very long time to come.”

Playland’s shoreline sustained grave damage during Superstorm Sandy on Oct. 29, 2012, with winds and tidal surges greatly damaging the south boardwalk, and completely demolishing and washing away the north boardwalk.

The completed boardwalk is built with 100-year storm-resistant materials. The boardwalk has been upgraded with wood planks replacing the former wooden ones, and a concrete substructure and platforms to further stand up to the elements. Like the park’s south boardwalk, the new boardwalk’s decking is made of Brazilian hardwood known as Ipe, which can last more than 30 years without warping and splitting.

New stainless-steel fencing on both the water’s edge and the park side of the walkway has been installed, along with brand new, historically correct benches and lighting to complement the park’s Art Deco architecture.

The completion of the north boardwalk reconstructs Playland’s scenic Seaside Walk that runs along Long Island Sound and offers beautiful vistas. It is a 3/4-mile path that starts

Please Don’t Preempt Our Television Shows

By Eric Schenon
I’m not an all-access sports producer, but I have been on board in the fourth hour of the Today Show for the past 11 years. I’ve been part of the crew since Kathy Lee Gifford and Hoda Kotb left. After the news of the day in the first two hours, fol- lowed by Megyn Kelly’s hour of sensation, the fourth hour is what I call the “time to relax.” It features, for the most part, positive stories and plenty of great entertainment.

We drink wine at 10 a.m.? We will know that for another day.

On the previous day I was watching, Ka- thi Lee, joined by a host filling in for Hoda, was broadcasting from London. The topic was the premiere of the new “Mama Mia” movie in theaters as we speak. Interviews with Cher and her fate call guests mark the movie was quite entertaining.

I guess that is “Mama Mia” going to be the “Seabiscuit” of summer – something we all desperately need. Fifteen minutes before the end of the show, it was un- ceremoniously “preempted” by a “breaking news bulletin” from Finland.

Yes, the breaking news was the Trump- Putin press conference.

This country is going to be home, turned on “The View” on Channel 7, and it, too, was preempted by the Trump-Press conference – or ‘press’ – as we call it in the news world.

There are way too many “preemptions” for breaking news bulletins on television nowadays. The television manufacturer or cable company that comes up with a way for us to turn off the breaking news alerts, I will give you credit. But spectrum people must be aware of it even if it’s too late.

In the past, we had a “wouldn’t.”

Eric Schenon

So now we have not only a commander-in-chief but done with English-language in-chief. You know the Press Office stuff in the White House stayed real late last night to figure out how our presi- dent’s return from Finland to figure out how to spin this one.

Trump has got to stop doing things like this that embarrasses our country, particularly when he is comparing the actions of a former KGB officer to those he appointed to office and relies on for intelligence. Make America great again! Embracing us on the international stage won’t go any better.

And, please, television manufacturers, cable television companies, wherever you are in the country who has the power, devise a system so that we can click off these “breaking news alerts” at the end of every show and then turn to our regularly scheduled programming.

Little Radicals Presents
"Ragtime" This Weekend

Little Radicals Theatre, Inc., will present its summer 2018 production of “Ragtime” from July 20 to 22 at the Gannon Willey Library in Yonkers. In an effort to truly live up to its name, Little Radicals Theatre will be bringing to Westchester a wildly theatrical, moving and innovative retelling of one of musical theater’s most celebrated contemporary classics.

Set in the turn-of-the-20th century New York, “Ragtime,” a triptych of inspiring tales are woven together – of an upper-class wife who ended her life for her African-American husband, a Jewish immigrant, and a daring, young woman, as the original melting pot is on the verge of judgment by Chris Piro, and choreography by Erin Pryor, with direction by Michael Mirra, musical direction by John T. Robinson Viegas of Yonkers as Emma Goldman; Maj. Gen. Anthony German, the adjutant general for the State of New York, recently announced the promotion of members of the New York Army National Guard in recognition of their capability for additional responsibility and leadership.

Advance tickets are $10 for children less of age, and seniors; and $22 for adults. Tickets at the door, as available.

Woods Pool on Mamaroneck Avenue in White Plains offers a venue for craft fairs. Hand tools (Boston Post Road) in Rye will host a volunteer activity on July 21. Pre-registration is required. For more information, call 914-864-7282.

Craft fairs offer local artists an opportunity to sell their work. These events are popular because they attract a wide range of customers, and they provide a venue for artists to network and promote their work. In addition, craft fairs often feature other activities, such as live music, food trucks, and children's activities, which make them a fun and engaging experience for everyone.

Craft fairs can be challenging to organize, as there are many details to consider, such as selecting vendors, planning the layout, and promoting the event. However, with careful planning and attention to detail, craft fairs can be successful and rewarding for both artists and organizers.

Craft fairs can also be beneficial for the local community, as they can attract tourists and stimulate the local economy. In addition, craft fairs can be a source of income for local artists, who can sell their work directly to customers and gain exposure for their work.

Prenuptial agreements and postnuptial agreements are used for a variety of reasons, including protecting assets, ensuring that the parties are protected in the event of a divorce, and providing a framework for the parties to address their financial and legal responsibilities. These agreements can be used to address a wide range of issues, including the allocation of assets and liabilities, the responsibilities of each party in the event of a separation or divorce, and the financial arrangements for any children of the marriage.

Prenuptial agreements are used to address financial and legal responsibilities before a marriage takes place. These agreements are similar to prenuptial agreements, only those done during the marriage of a couple. Prenuptial agreements can address all of the above issues as a prenuptial agreement. Postnuptial agreements are used for many different reasons, including protecting assets, providing a framework for the parties to address their financial and legal responsibilities, and ensuring that the parties are protected in the event of a divorce.

Prenuptial agreements and postnuptial agreements are actions that may arise when a couple marries or files for divorce. These agreements are used to address the couple’s particular circumstances. They must be done properly to be valid. They comply with rules and formalities mandated by law. These agreements are not regulated by any government agency. There are guidelines to determine if a prenuptial agreement is legal. A violation of these guidelines, these agreements can be vacated or canceled by the courts. It is important to have these agreements done properly. These agreements can be negotiated by an experienced attorney.

Tax Cap Set at 2% for 2019

The tax cap, which first applied to all New York communities with a population of 3,500 or more in 2011 and is currently set at 2 percent, makes it harder for local governments to raise the tax rate higher than the increase in the cost of living.

The New York State Tax Commission is responsible for enforcing the tax cap, which is set by the state legislature and is designed to limit the amount of growth in local property taxes.

Local governments must submit a budget to the state and have their spending plans reviewed by the New York State Comptroller, who has the power to object to any spending that is not consistent with the tax cap.

If a local government’s spending plan is approved by the Comptroller, it is then presented to the state legislature for final approval.

The tax cap has been in place in New York for more than 10 years, and during that time, tax growth has been significantly reduced.

In the 2019-20 fiscal year, the average increase in property taxes in New York was 1.9 percent, compared to 3.4 percent in the 2018-19 fiscal year and 5.6 percent in the 2017-18 fiscal year.

The tax cap has been praised by many for its role in keeping property taxes in check, and it has been credited with helping to reduce the financial burden on New York families and businesses.

However, some critics argue that the tax cap is too strict and that it limits the ability of local governments to provide the services that residents need.

Others argue that the tax cap is too lenient and that it allows local governments to spend more than they should on non-essential items.

The tax cap is set to expire in 2022, and there is ongoing debate in the legislature about whether it should be extended or phased out.

The tax cap is one of the many issues that are likely to be discussed in the upcoming election, as candidates will be asked to explain how they would address the issue of property taxes.

For the past month, Westchester sculptor Marilyn Marilyn Miller has been haunted by scenes of the nearly 1,800 children separated at the US-Mexican border from their families as a result of the Trump administration’s aggressive immigration policy. The heart-wrenching images inspired her to create “Immigration Reform,” an installation that will be on view at Union Square in New York City on July 19 and 26, from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.

“Immigration Reform” is a sculptural depiction of a cell within a cell, constructed of steel and mixed media. “Immigration Reform” depicts a cell within a cell, containing the figure of a young woman and her child, a child less than 5, both tired and disoriented. The artist said she will be present, distributing flyers to encourage people to contact their elected officials — “U.S. senators and representatives, as well as President Donald Trump — to ‘repair and revamp’ this dreadful policy.”

For 25 years, Miller has created sculpture in Westchester County. Experience and own auto preferred. To apply send email to risingmediagroup@gmail.com.

For the past month, Westchester sculptor Marilyn Marilyn Miller has been haunted by scenes of the nearly 1,800 children separated at the US-Mexican border from their families as a result of the Trump administration’s aggressive immigration policy. The heart-wrenching images inspired her to create “Immigration Reform,” an installation that will be on view at Union Square in New York City on July 19 and 26, from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.

“Immigration Reform” is a sculptural depiction of a cell within a cell, constructed of steel and mixed media. “Immigration Reform” depicts a cell within a cell, containing the figure of a young woman and her child, a child less than 5, both tired and disoriented. The artist said she will be present, distributing flyers to encourage people to contact their elected officials — “U.S. senators and representatives, as well as President Donald Trump — to ‘repair and revamp’ this dreadful policy.”

For 25 years, Miller has created sculpture in Westchester County. Experience and own auto preferred. To apply send email to risingmediagroup@gmail.com.

Yonkers Deputy Mayor Jim Cavanaught cuts the ribbon for the new AAA office on Central Park Avenue, with Jeanna Martellini from the Yonkers Chamber of Commerce and AAA representatives.

Congratulations to Lord Mintah from Yonkers High School, winner of the 2017-18 Mayor’s Award, as well as a $2,000 scholarship toward his college tuition. Lord has decided to attend SUNY Plattsburgh, where he will study psychology. Congrats, Lord, and make Yonkers proud!

Westchester Artist Creates ‘Immigration Reform’

The Automobile Club of America recently opened an office in Yonkers, located at 2349 Central Park Ave. Yonkers Deputy Mayor Jim Cavanaught, and Jeanna Martellini from the Yonkers Chamber of Commerce, welcomed AAA to Yonkers at a ribbon-cutting ceremony.

The new AAA location will provide its members in Yonkers and Westchester the opportunity to walk in and pick up information on discounts, travel maps, and other insurance, travel and automotive services and discounts. The AAA Yonkers office can be reached at 914-722-0014, or AAA.com.

Nader, a 60-year resident of Yonkers, grew up with seven siblings on Waverly Street. After working his way through college, he dedicated himself to fighting for educational opportunities and equitable services, serving for over 40 years as a teacher, principal, college professor, BOE trustee, and currently a practicing attorney. With Sara, his wife of 34 years, he has raised five daughters who all attended Yonkers Public Schools and now have careers in medicine, education, and dentistry.

Nader is the candidate Yonkers can trust to protect our best interests.

UPAC Presents a Beautiful ‘Ballet Under the Stars’

The Untermyer Performing Arts Council presented “Ballet Under the Stars,” performed by perennial Yonkers audience favorite Connecticut Ballet, July 14 at Untermyer Park. Narrated by Brett Raphael, “Ballet Under the Stars,” with classic, contemporary and new presentations, delighted the audience. The program included premieres by choreographers Eve Chan and Raphael, a duet by company dancer Marco Valdivieso, the classic “Raymonda Variations” and Darel Reed’s contemporary work “Pulse.”

Raphael, Connecticut Ballet’s artistic director and founder, who was chosen by George Balanchine at the age of 10 to receive a Ford Foundation Scholarship to study at the School of American Ballet, brought his insights as an award-winning principal dancer, choreographer and teacher to the UPAC audience.

This celebration of dance was another “don’t miss” Untermyer Performing Arts Council program under the stars. The Untermyer Performing Arts Council is an all-volunteer group that brings diverse, professional programs to the people of Yonkers and beyond. For 43 years, it has brought free entertainment to Untermyer Park each one of those years.

This program, done in cooperation with Mayor Mike Spano and the Yonkers Department of Parks, Recreation and Conservation, was made possible by ArtsWestchester with support from Westchester County government and the City of Yonkers. The Empire City Casino, State Sen. Andrea Stewart-Cousins, State Sen. Shelley Mayer, and many others provided additional support for this program.

For more information about upcoming concerts, call the UPAC’s Arts Line at 914-375-3435, visit www.untermyer.com or www.facebook.com/Untermyer, or “follow” the organization on Twitter @UntermyerPAC, or on LinkedIn or Pinterest.
