Did the Ice Bucket Challenge Really Start in Yonkers?

By Dan Murphy

Did the Ice Bucket Challenge, as popularly known, originate in Yonkers? There seems to be some confusion on the source of this viral social media event.

On August 17, 2014, the Yonkers Times newspaper published an article titled “Did the Ice Bucket Challenge Really Start in Yonkers?” which questioned the origins of the challenge.

The article mentioned that the challenge started on a Facebook page called “Yonkers Daily Voice” on August 17, 2014. It stated that the challenge was initiated by a Yonkers resident named Viviana Guzman, who challenged friends to pour a bucket of ice water over their heads within 24 hours to raise money for ALS research.

The article further stated that the challenge was quickly adopted by celebrities and public figures, including New York state Senator Andrea Stewart-Cousins, who posted a video of herself pouring ice water over her head.

The article concluded by saying that the Ice Bucket Challenge had become a global phenomenon, with millions of people participating and raising millions of dollars for ALS research.

Will Yonkers Vote On Primary Day?

By Dan Murphy

Are Yonkers residents motivated to vote on Primary Day, which is September 9th? The article posed this question, as it is unknown whether the city’s Democratic primary for governor could attract voters.

The article mentioned that Yonkers Mayor Mike Spano welcomed the East Yonkers Boys and Girls Club team to City Hall last week to celebrate their victory in the Little League World Series. He congratulated the team and said it was a great moment for Yonkers.

The article also mentioned that Yonkers is known as the “Birthplace of Little League” and that the city has produced many successful players, including former Major League Baseball player Ryan Zimmerman.

However, the article raised questions about voter turnout in Yonkers, as it is known for its low voter turnout rates.

Mayer Challenged by Sweeney In Dem. Assembly Primary

By Dan Murphy

The article mentioned that Democratic Assembly member Shelley Mayer is running for re-election to the 90th District, which includes the 90th Assembly seat. Mayer is facing a challenge from Republican Michael Sweeney.

The article stated that Sweeney is a lawyer and former Yonkers city council member. He is running on a platform of fighting for Yonkers and improving the city’s schools.

The article mentioned that Mayer is completing her second term in the Assembly, winning a special election in March 2012 and a general election later that year. In her first term, Mayer was able to secure substantial additional funding for Yonkers Public Schools, which included a $5 million downtown that exceeded the proposal by $6 million.

The article also mentioned that Mayer is chairwoman of the Education Subcommittee and is known for her advocacy for Yonkers in Albany.

The 22nd annual Yonkers Riverfest, held along the majestic Hudson River, is one of the largest and most creative festivals in Westchesteer County. An estimated 25,000 people come each year to enjoy music, children’s activities, environmental exhibits, international cuisine, an outdoor artist gallery, carnival games and much more. Two more world-class performances will be there, playing everything from country and soul, to hip-hop, rock and classic.

Felix Cavaleri’s Rascals will headline the main stage at the Riverfest. Cavaleri was living in Westchester long before he helped form The Young Rascals and co-wrote the number-one smash hits “Groovin’,” “People Got to Be Free” and “A Beautiful Morning.” He was here before The Rascals were enshrined in the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, and before he himself was inducted into the Songwriter’s Hall of Fame. He grew up just six miles from downtown Yonkers, and just like the Riverfest is the one day of the year where there is no stress, no rush, and no cost.

From Felix on Sept. 6 for the 22nd annual Yonkers Riverfest at 1 Larkin Plaza – music starts at noon and goes to 7 p.m. For a full lineup of artists, visit www.YonkersRiverfest.com.

The Yonkers Riverfest is produced by the Yonkers Downtown Waterfront 2030, with significant support from the City of Yonkers, Dominique Sawyer, Hudson Valley Bank and Westchester Community College. It is also sponsored by Con Edison, Jueces for Life, News 12, St. John’s Riverside Hospital, Jacobs Engineering and St. Joseph Community Garden at 128 Oak St., Yonkers on Aug. 14.

This community garden is a great addition to the Yonkers community,” said Mayor Spano, who planted one of the first new vegetable plants. “It is a place where our kids can play outdoors and learn about the environment by participating in sustainability efforts.”

“Greyston’s Community Gardens have been providing environmental programs and soil-based supports for individuals and families to come together for more than 20 years,” said Greyston President and CEO Steven Brown. “By the extraordinary Lucy Moreno-Casanova, the gardendirector people to participate fully in their community, learn about nutrition and grow fresh fruits and vegetables.”

Scars of local children, their parents and members of the community attended the ribbon-cutting, as well as State Sen. Andrew Stewart-Coons and Yonkers City Council Members Christopher Johnson and Carmen Pineda.

The newest garden came about through a partnership with the Yonkers Community Action Program, with specific dedicated start-up funding from the Westchester Community Foundation. The new garden also features partnerships with Catholic Charities and Obreros Unidos, which have worked together over the past several months to transform this dilapidated and trash-filled space into a garden that will feature 25 garden beds and will serve hundreds of local children and their families.

Ongoing support for the garden comes from the City of Yonkers and private donations. This newest garden is a terrific example of the public/private partnerships of which Greyston is well-known.

Ben Fraternale has been making movies since the age of 15, and his film “Suck & Robbers” premiered at YoFi Fest in 2013. He continues to write, edit and make movies from his hometown of Yonkers.

Q: How old were you when you made your first movie?

A: Almost 15 years old. The film detailed the struggles of overcoming on childhood chipmunks and how it can tear down relationships, health and happiness. My first, more legitimate project was a 10-year long, Italian-language short film for a class in which the characters immersed through Italian cuisine.

Q: What’s the most challenging part of making a movie?

A: For an independent filmmaker, it is personally making every detail happen. When someone knows a movie, they don’t realize that even the smallest minute details had to be created. From a costume designer to props, everything is key.

Q: What advice would you give to aspiring filmmakers?

A: Making a movie is hard. Waiting for people to do things for you or waiting for the opportunity to make it big is useless. The best thing you can do is get out there and do it. Affordable filmmaking can be self-financed, and it offers actors to read outside the lines, and more chance to make it big.

Q: Before YoFi Fest, had you ever been downtown Yonkers? What surprised you most about it?

A: Yes, indeed. There are few things better than watching movies and then bombing over to The Piano Place across the street for a drink. Downtown is the perfect excuse for an outing like this – everything is accessible and adds to the environment of the festival. The Riverfront Library’s amenities floored me and the outpost of art from locales was truly impressive. I love the building film community that YoFiDoc is fostering.

Q: What would you be doing if you were not making movies?

A: I’m an extremely proud Westchester-raised citizen, so having a festival in my backyard brings a sense of hometown spirit to the ceremony was an undeniable opportunity. With the film shooting in some of our favorite downtown Yonkers, it was all the more fitting.

Q: What made you enter your movie in YoFi Fest?

A: YoFi Fest is an extremely proud Westchester-raised citizen, so having a festival in my backyard was a dream come true, being able to bring that hometown spirit to the ceremony was an undeniable opportunity. With the film shooting in some of our favorite downtown Yonkers, it was all the more fitting.

Q: What’s the most exciting thing about it?

A: YoFi Fest has been making movies since the age of 15, and it’s so exciting to be able to realize a dream you set out to do when you were young. The festival is a great success.

Editor’s Note: In anticipation of YoFi Fest 2014, we’re highlighting some of last year’s filmmakers who made the inaugural YoFi Fest a great success.

YoFi Fest is a non-profit, non-governmental organization, established in 1994 as a family group, which links women and girls of African descent globally to the resources that can advance and empower them. It does this through advocacy, education and promotion of African culture.

This marks the organization’s 20th year of empowering women and families of color – locally and globally.

The primary areas of focus are health and wellness, education and global affairs.

STSI is a membership organization, guided by a Board of Directors and headquartered at 1020 N. Broadway, Yonkers. “Like” it on Facebook at www.facebook.com/stsionthemove.

Adorable Abbey is ready for adoption.

The Yonkers Animal Shelter has a number of pets available for adoption. Abbey is about a year old, and is an adorable, medium-sized dog weighing about 40 pounds. She was found tied to a fence in a park in Yonkers. Shelter staff thought someone would come for her - but she has none.

Abbey was all fat and fed up. She is a calm dog who likes cats and calms dogs; she doesn’t like other dogs who are very energetic and stamp on her. She likes to meet new people and has already had some interest. She would be a great family companion and would do well in a home with kids to play with.

Visit Abbey at the Yonkers Animal Shelter at 100 Ridge Hill Blvd., between 1 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays, or noon and 4 p.m. Saturdays.

For more information, call 914-377-6730 during business hours or 914-901-3215 at any time, or email lsalem45@gmail.com.

YPS Offers Free Vocational Training

In today’s increasingly competitive job market, having the proper training and available skills is more important than ever. With that in mind, Pathways to Success, the adult education program of the Yonkers Public School District, offers a variety of courses that are pertinent and useful.

The Microcomputer Applications Program provides “hands-on” technical training in the use of the Microcomputer. It is divided into three separate modules, including computer fundamentals and personal skills, Microcomputer, and Word, Excel and Micro, Excel. Depending on one’s knowledge and experience, students may enroll in any of the modules (your level of computer knowledge will be assessed when you register). The Career Arts and Hospitality Program also provides “hands-on” training in all aspects of the food service industry, with training offered in supervisory, management, and service occupations.

What’s more, this program is taught by Edi Ehl, Director of Adult Education.

Upon successful completion of the program, students receive ServSafe certification, a nationally recognized food service industry credential.

The Retail Sales and Customer Service Program is a training program through a wide range of educational strategies, including classroom instruction, the use of computerized cash registers and electronic calculators, preparation of cash sales reports, financial literacy modules, and professional customer service materials from the Service Quality Institute.

Pathways to Success also offers classes in adult basic education, English as a Second Language, and high school diploma programs, as well as employment assistance, citizenship preparation and more. Programs are provided at numerous locations throughout Yonkers, with both day and evening classes available.

Registration for the fall program will take place Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 2 and 3 at Yonkers High School, from 9 a.m. to noon; at PARIS East, 530 Briarcliff Ave., from 5:30 to 8 p.m.; and at Enrico Fermi, 27 Poplar St., also from 5:30 to 8 p.m.

For more information on any of the Pathways to Success programs, call 914-376-8616 at 9 a.m. Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Students Achieving Lowest Grades in State ESL & Math Exams

Yonkers Public Schools achieved modest district-wide gains in both the 2014 New York State English Language Arts and Mathematics tests, which were released last week by the New York State Education Department. Students who are eligible for ESL services show gains in grades three through eight, and are expected to do so, in 2014, and 18.7 percent of Yonkers students are achieving at or above proficiency in ELA, a 1.8 percent gain for those students tested this year.

Consistent with previous years, Yonkers has maintained the lowest levels of proficiency of the “big five” city school districts, including Buffalo (12.2 percent ELA, 13.2 percent math), Rochester (15 percent ELA, 6.6 percent math), and Syracuse (5.8 percent ELA, 5.6 percent math). Results were not provided for New York City.

Compared to the overall performance of students in New York State, the Yonkers ELA gain of 1.8 percent is greater than the one percent of students in New York City who achieved a state-wide matched score. Math, too, shows a similar pattern. A performance gain of 1.8 percent (253 students) compared to the state-wide gain in performance, which is 4.8 percent.

Department of Schools Director Michael Yardin stated the increased rigor of the Common Core Learning Standards continues encouraging education for teachers and students alike.

"We are most certainly not satisfied with these results," he said. "For the coming school year, we, as educators, must focus on addressing what is directly impacting our students so that we will garner greater student achievement. Relevant and sustained professional development for teachers and administrators must hone their ability to diagnose students’ academic difficulties and be prescriptive about addressing areas of concern.”

"The district has also initiated a redesign of central office administration for the coming school year to address the diverse needs of all of our students," added Board of Education President Dr. Nadler Saigh. “Aligned with this is the restructuring of both the special education/support service providers and language acquisition, bilingual and ESOL departments to address the needs of all students. Bilingual and ESOL educators must hone their ability to diagnose students’ academic difficulties and be prescriptive about addressing areas of concern.”

"My primary priority is to ensure that our students know how to read and comprehend at grade three,” he said. “Therefore, we will place more emphasis on instructional intervention for early childhood education to assist all students in becoming active readers by the time they finish the third grade.”

The Yonkers Riverfront Library is located at One Larkin Center (across from the Yonkers Metro-North train station); the Grinnell I. W. Kill Streetpark, at 220 Canal Park Ave.; and the Crosswood branch is at 16 Thompson St.

Eligibility Guidelines for Free and Reduced Price School Meals

Yonkers Public Schools’ Food Service Department announced last week a fine and reduced-price meal policy for Yonkers-area school children for 2014-15. Applications are available at district schools, at the District Office, on kensbpublicschools.org.

Schools have adopted the following family eligibility guidelines to determine what families can be considered as eligible for free or reduced-price meals.

Students currently enrolled at Yonkers who currently receive free, reduced-price or full-price meals are automatically considered eligible.

Families who have incomes above the amount below for their family size may be eligible for free, and shall be enrolled in determining eligibility:

Looking back on that effort, I believe the Grapevine became the newspaper it gave the people of Yonkers another positive newspaper to read, and learn about what students were doing in high school (not just football). Second, it gave student Grapevine reporters and photographers an opportunity to develop the skills that they had and ability to tell stories. I remember that every time I met with a student reporter or photographer. They told me why they were doing it and the pride that they felt in telling their story. Unfortunately, budgetary cutbacks at VPSNY made it impossible to continue the Grapevine. Perhaps someday, someone will walk forward with the $400 to sponsor another student so that they can get coats with the going to eight teachers’ stipends. I am ready to move on when that day comes.

First Positive West Nile Virus Case in Westchester

Westchester County has learned of its first positive West Nile Virus case this year, which meets the second Friday of each month from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Old Guard of White Plains. Meetings range in age from the late 1970s to the 2010s and it has two passion.

While many of the members are active in sports, such as bowling, golf or other physically demanding activities, a significant group of members takes pride in playing bridge. For the bridge players there is a dedicated lunch which provides the intellectual and emotional support that they need to escape from the intense card-playing enthusiasm.

Many of the members are lecture-magnus,

POLICE BRUTALITY & COMMUNITIES OF COLOR: RACE IN AMERICA

Aug. 22 marked the 24th anniversary of the death of Harry Snow, a co-founder of Black Power. The local black community of Yonkers held a remembrance ceremony in his honor. Snow was a catalyst in the development of the Black Power movement and for the next 24 years, the struggle for racial justice continued in Yonkers. The event was hosted by the Yonkers City Council, which was founded by Snow in 1964. Snow was a leader in the local struggle for racial justice and for the rights of black men.

Close to 1,000 visitors enjoyed the re- cent health and education street fair on North Broadway, organized by the Community Bapt- ist Church Outreach Ministry and the Rev. Clarence Bolling. This was the second year for the event, which took place in front of the church and stretched down to the Police Ath- letic League building.

The visitors – many of them children – were able to take part in receiving one of the 300 backpacks filled with supplies.
