By Dan Murphy

Most people in Yonkers know Nader Sayegh from his decades of service to the people of Yonkers as a teacher, principal, president of the Board of Education, and through his public service on too many board and community organizations to mention. When former Assembly member Shelley Mayer became State Sen. Shelley Mayer, a vacancy was created for the Assembly seat in the 90th District, which includes 80 percent of Yonkers.

Last Saturday our two Yonkers high school teams were in action. At Gorton High School the Yonkers Force defeated Beacon 20- 14. At the Saunders H.S. field, the Brave lost to White Plains 14-7 in a real tough loss.

The Yonkers Force was in game against Beacon in the last 15 seconds, when Brance Hamilton scored a touchdown on a 7-yard run. The Force once again showed its fine run- ning game, with Tyrick Greenville rushing for 88 yards on 14 carries. Also for the Force, Elijah Chambless was 5 for 62 and one TD. Mahari Willis was 5 for 79 and one TD. Hamilton was 2 for 28 yards and one TD. The rushing game amassed 342 yards on the ground. Jesse Garcia was 3-3 passing for 18 yards.

“The game was tied 14-14 when the winning touchdown was scored,” said Coach Dan DeFilipps. “I am proud of the way our kids competed... it was a hard-fought game.”

The Yonkers Force will play Scarsdale this Friday, Oct. 5 at 4 p.m. at the Gorton H.S. field. The Brave, coached by Vic Chiappa, proved that for a first-year team it belongs on the field with anyone. This young team lost to White Plains in a closely-fought defensive battle.

Starting for the Brave was quarterback Ja- val McNair, who rushed for 109 yards on 24 carries and the Brave’s only touchdown of the day. Another star of the game was Tyrig Plystra, who kept the Brave’s line drive alive with two fine first-down passes. Plystr, Cordell Dume- nor and Nuyryel Benitez each played a stellar game on defense, each recording a sack. “The kids played hard,” said Chiappa. “We made a lot of mental mistakes. The effort and enthusiasm was there!”

The Brave has to be proud this week, setting up a showdown with the Force at 7 p.m. Oct. 12.

State Comptroller DiNapoli last week designated 25 municipalities across the state as being in "fiscal stress," identifying potential financial difficulties that should concern local leaders and residents. The designation is based on the comptroller’s "Fiscal Stress" report, which assesses a municipality’s ability to cover future expenses with current revenues. The report is part of DiNapoli’s broader fiscal stress initiative, which was launched in 2014 to identify and address potential financial problems before they become crises.

Among the municipalities designated as being in fiscal stress are Westchester County, which was previously labeled "moderate fiscal stress," and Nassau and Suffolk Counties, which were designated as "severe fiscal stress." The designation is based on a variety of factors, including the municipality’s ability to cover future expenses with current revenues, the size of its fund balance, and the level of its debt.

Westchester County

Westchester County was designated as being in "moderate fiscal stress," which is the third-highest fiscal stress category. The designation is based on the county’s ability to cover future expenses with current revenues, its fund balance, and its level of debt. The county has been designated as being in moderate fiscal stress for three consecutive years.

Molinaro wants to Cut property tax by 30%

By Mary Hay

On This Day in Yonkers History

New Yorkers deserve a governor who will fight to end corruption, waste, and abuse. On Monday, Oct. 8, Yonkers mayor Mike Spano announced that the state Education Board of Regents would return $10 million to Yonkers, which was wrongfully withheld from the city due to "corruption, waste, and abuse at the highest levels of government." Spano also called for a "moratorium" on new state mandates on local governments, which would allow Yonkers to keep every dollar they earn.

The Cuomo campaign has begun to run a series of TV commercials attacking Yonkers Mayor Mike Spano, who also asked for term limits to help "end corruption and restore faith in government." The commercials are part of a negative campaign that has been running in the state for months.

The property tax burden in New York State will be slashed by 30%, according to Yonkers mayor Mike Spano. The announcement comes just weeks after the mayor was elected to a second term.

The property tax burden in New York State will be slashed by 30%, according to Yonkers mayor Mike Spano. The announcement comes just weeks after the mayor was elected to a second term.

The Cuomo campaign has begun to run a series of TV commercials attacking Yonkers Mayor Mike Spano, who also asked for term limits to help "end corruption and restore faith in government." The commercials are part of a negative campaign that has been running in the state for months.

CITY OF YONKERS-NEW YORK

The controversy over the I Love NY tourism signs has ended and the taxpayers of New York don’t have to pay for the $4 million signs to be removed and replaced. A statement from New York State Department of Transportation Commissioner Paul Kerr and NYS Thruway Authority Director Matthew Driscoll reads:

“The New York State Department of Transportation and the Thruway Authority have been working with the federal Department of Transportation on signage on New York’s roadways. Those current campaigns have run for approximately five years and have been very successful. The Federal Highway Administration regulates signage on federal highways. We are working with our partners to understand efforts to make our state more attractive and accessible to the traveling public and that we will work with the state to review our offers and evaluate the impact on the traveling public.”

“A new project is intended to launch an innovative experimental CM campaign to highlight cultural, historic, and other significant state attractions off the highway system. This program will be designed to work with all partners and we thank our federal counterparts for their cooperation. We will submit a final plan on this new project in the coming months.”

“As the ‘I Love NY’ Tourism and ‘NY Loves NY’ advertising campaigns have run for approximately five years, the state will be designing a new advertising program which will be profiled in various media outlets, as easy-to-read magazine ads and in on-line and off-line magazine campaigns. Regional introductory signs – referred to as roadblocks – will be designed for special attractions and will be part of the effort. This is a tremendous economic success and has driven tourism to record highs and is now a more-than-$100-billion industry providing approximately 1 million jobs. We will coordinate with our federal counterparts on this new project on the coming months.”
